FISHERS of MEN

By S. R. CROCKETT, author of "Bog, Myrtle and Peat" and "The Lilac Sunbonnet." 12mo, ornamental cloth,
$1.50.

THE effort of a boy's soul to evolve itself in spite of surroundings will always be interesting to the reader. Oliver Twist is perhaps one of the most pathetic examples, and David Copperfield one of the most interesting. The hero of this story is just "the Kid," a little Irish boy with a terrible termagant for a mother and a weakling for a father, but he turns out well.

THE COMPLETE HOSTESS

By CLARA E. LAUGHLIN, assisted by Priscilla Leonard, Eleanora K. Marble, and Mrs. John Foster Kirk, Jr.
12mo, ornamental cloth, $1.25 net; postage additional.

"THE HOSTESS" is a book which every woman should own, whatever her position in the world. Valuable suggestions as to entertaining are given to those in moderate circumstances as well as to those who do not have to think of expense. It contains novel ideas as to ways of giving pleasure to one's friends.

A WORK OF IMMENSE IMPORTANCE

FUTURE LIFE

In Ancient Wisdom and Modern Science

By LOUIS ELBÉ

THIS is the authorized translation of the famous book which has been creating so wide a stir in scientific and religious circles throughout France, under the title "La Vie Future." It will be received with equal interest here, and will arouse very general discussion, as the subject is one which is engaging, not only scientists, but laymen, in ever-increasing numbers. This volume offers for the first time a complete presentation of all the available evidence hitherto available only in the most scattered and inaccessible forms. With great care and exactness M. Elbé has arranged a plain statement of the discoveries, theories, and ideas of the greatest investigators, together with his own illuminating views and comments, and a mass of authentic information regarding the beliefs of the primitive races.

There is a constantly-increasing demand for works in this line, and book-sellers will appreciate the reception which will be waiting for so great a book as this—probably the most important ever published.

THE BOOK THAT WON THE NOBEL PEACE PRIZE

"GROUND ARMS!"

A Romance of European War

By BERTHA VON SUTTNER

THE wide publicity given the Baroness von Suttner's "Die Waffen Nieder!" has made it necessary to bring out a re-issue of this admirable translation. It is needless to say that there will be everywhere an immediate desire to read the book which is supposed to have exerted the greatest influence in bringing about the "Hague Tribunal," and this new edition presents probably the best English form available.

SOME COMMENT

"There is something exceedingly winsome about Barbara; she is such a merry madcap of a girl, and yet as feminine as one could wish or imagine."—Brooklyn Standard-Union.

"Barbara is an alluring creature—a girl of brave heart, sweet spirit, high courage, warm temper, and fascinating moods and qualities."—Chicago Record-Herald.

"A fine figure of a man, Protheroe, lover, soldier, friend. And Miss Barbara bewitched all upon whom she cast her wonderful eyes."—Washington Star.

"A story of intense interest. The author has made for herself a name by it to be envied in the literary world."—Salt Lake Tribune.

Aside from the fact that "Barbara" is one of the most important publications of the season, it is also, without doubt, one of the finest from a mechanical point of view that have been issued in years.

THE QUICKENING

A new novel by the author of THE GRAFTERS

Francis Lynde's new novel to be published in March

An impressive novel, strong in its impressiveness, carefully wrought, intensely dramatic, first engaging the reader's attention and then compelling it.

No nobler theme can be imagined; "The Quickening" is the story of a man in the making.

Aided only by his own great courage and his own great love, he fights through to faith and success and love returned.

A big-hearted tale is "The Quickening," of a man and a woman who dealt with life at first hand.

NOTES IN SEASON.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS publish this week "The Opal Sea," by John C. Van Dyke, and "The Prisoner of Ornith Farm," by Frances Powell, fully described by us last week.

GEORGE W. JACOBS & Co. will publish on April 7 a new book by Karl Edwin Harriman, entitled "The Girl Out There," a love story, the "out there" of which is the country—open and free. The heroine is the product of that country, the hero being a hustling young fellow from the city.

THE CENTURY Co. will publish shortly a new novel by Jennette Lee, author of "A Pillar of Salt," "The Son of a Fiddler," and many short stories. The story is the chronicle of the quaint character, Uncle William, who gives title to the book, and the setting is an island off the Nova Scotia coast, with one shift of scene to New York City.

DODD, MEAD & COMPANY have just ready an important new work by James Phinney Baxter, entitled "Jacques Cartier, Sieur de Limoilou." This book has been in preparation for several years, and makes one of the most valuable additions to the history of French Canada. There is a memoir of Cartier, a description of his voyage to the St. Lawrence, a bibliography, and a facsimile of the manuscript of 1534.

D. APPLETON & Co. have just ready S. R. Crockett's new story, "Fishers of Men," describing the effort of a boy's soul to evolve itself in spite of surroundings; also, "The Complete Hostess," by Clara E. Laughlin assisted by Priscilla Leonard, Eleanor K. Marble and Mrs. John Foster Kirk, Jr., a book full of helpful suggestions for those in moderate circumstances as well as for those who do not have to think of expense.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish about the end of this month "The Evasion," a new novel by Miss Eugenia Brooks Frothingham, whose earlier book, "The Turn of the Road," has gone through fifteen printings. The scene is laid in and about Boston, Miss Frothingham's own home, and the book shows the actual drama existing in the lives of those people for whom "bridge," motoring, and week-end house parties are the principal entertainment.

DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & Co. will publish in April the first volume in The Farm Library devoted to cotton and written by Charles E. Burkett. It will include the history, acreage, improvement, culture, harvest, diseases, and manufacturing of cotton, cotton seed and oil, statistics, etc. They announce "Lays of Schooldays," by J. W. Foley, a volume of poems which have become widely known through their publication in newspapers and magazines. They chronicle various tragic and romantic episodes in the life of a "hennery beamus," as it is spelled by the hero.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. have postponed publication of Anna Chapin Ray's romance of Quebec, "Hearts and Creeds," until March 14. On the same date they will publish "Maid of Athens," a new Byron novel, by Lafayette McLaws, author of "When the Land was Young;" "The Fight for Canada," by Major William Wood; "The Book of Daniel and Modern Criticism," by the Rev. Charles H. H. Wright, D.D.; "Old Washington," by Harriet Prescott Spofford, five stories picturing the capital city as it was after the close of the War between the States; also popular editions of "Painted Shadows," by Richard Le Gallienne; "The Viking's Skull," by John R. Carling; "Sarah Tuldon," by Orme Agnus; "The Siege of Youth," by Frances Charles; "Hassan," by Henry Gillman, and "The Wolverine," by Albert L. Lawrence.

A man, rich and powerful, but weary of life and its problems, determines to commit suicide. He hires a room in a dingy London lodging house, in which to do the deed and hide his identity, and goes out into the fog to buy a pistol. He meets a miserably clad, starving girl, becomes interested in her pitiful story, and accompanies her to her garret in "Apple Blossom Court" to aid others equally poor. The scenes here are most pathetic—one story after another being told in London street dialect of suffering and sin, that move the weary man deeply, and convince him there is something yet for him to live for.

Later "the Kid" goes to Edinburgh, where he is put in training for the profession of thievery by his mother's new husband. One "Fisher of Men" is a silver-haired city missionary through whom "the Kid's" reclamation is accomplished. One hundred and fifty-four biographies and forty-three full-page portraits represent the contents of this first volume of a series, national in its scope, and marked by certain new features which give it special value. The material for the biographies was obtained mostly from the subjects to be written about, each one being asked to briefly describe his surroundings in childhood and youth, to mention difficulties overcome and to indicate the influences which awakened his ambition and strengthened his power of achievement, etc., thus making the work stimulating reading for young people, as well as a work of reference. The present volume and the second (the "Washington") yet to come contain for the most part names of men whose lifework has been national in its import, or who are actual residents of Washington.

A young Bostonian, member of the smart set, losing his money, his fair weather friends, and the girl he loves all at the same time, feels pretty "sore." He accepts, without much protest, an appointment obtained for him by an old friend of his father to go to Russia to take charge of one of the American Trading Company's stores at Stryetensk, Siberia. The time is just before the outbreak of the Japanese war with Russia, when both countries were in a ferment. His adventures are most exciting on his way to his destination. Twice or three times he is arrested as a spy; falls before the fascinations of two women spies, one a Russian, the other a Japanese, and has other thrilling happenings.

Paradise Valley in Tennessee was the home of the characters. The ones who play leading parts are Major Dabney, an old Confederate soldier and chief owner of the land in that vicinity, his pretty niece Ardea, Caleb Gordon, owner of an iron-furnace, and also an old soldier of the war, and his son, Tom. The time is in the '80's, twenty years after the Civil War had ended, when Northern capital was seeking investment in the rich fields of coal and iron ore of Tennessee. The development of Tom Gordon's character is the dominant theme. Destined from his birth to be a preacher, Tom goes through many phases of doubt and unbelief before he touches ground. All through the story Ardea Dabney is Tom's guardian angel, the young man's inherent goodness bringing him safely through. Tom becomes a man when his father needs a friend, successfully fighting a dishonest Northern promoter, who has them in his clutches. By the author of "The grafters."

In 1883 the Dean of Beckminster and his wife were supposed to be drowned at sea. Twenty years after an English bank-clerk, who, by many deaths, had become a British peer, sailed for Australia to join his family. There the long-lost Dean, his wife and a daughter, born in their exile, are found. The fun, knowledge of human nature, and views of so-called civilization, make a bright story of surprises.

Macnaughton, S. A Lame Dog's diary: a novel. N. Y., Dodd, Mead & Co., 1906. [F.] c. 4+311 p. D. cl., $1.50.

The "lame dog" is a young Englishman who had lost a leg in the South African war. He is at home in a little English village, being nursed back to health and strength by his sister, Palestrina. Time hangs heavy on his hands, so advised by Mrs. Fielden, a charming young widow, he starts a diary. Mrs. Fielden has a keen sense of humor, and makes him many consolatory visits; between them they miss few of the queer characteristics of the odd people among whom they live. The story is one of every-day events, made attractive by the way in which they are presented. By the author of "The fortune of Christina McNab."

Vance Chatham, the Kentuckian, came up into Ohio, one November day, almost half a century ago, looking for some means of earning a living. He had lost his parents, and his home, the only possession left him being his thoroughbred "Kaintuck," his father's last gift. He falls in with a group of horse thieves, with whom he has some remarkable adventures and engages to teach school in the neighborhood. He has a love affair, marries and afterwards enlists in the Union Army. The story is one of the life of the time—the horse "Kaintuck" being a conspicuous actor in it. The coming Civil War and the abolition of slavery are foretold.

A German university town, two students, one studying chemistry, the other studying his surroundings, and a young opera singer are the ingredients with which the author fashions an original love story. The girl is a coquette and loves new excitements. She is careless and musical and changeable and she leads the men she first meets at a restaurant a very exciting life for some time. Gives quite an insight into student life in Germany and into the temperamental differences of Americans and Germans.

A remarkably handsome, but rather dull young man is the hero. He is of a good family and has been under the care of tutors for years, but never acquired any education. With no profession and with few interests, he is thrown into the London smart set. The story revolves around him; his doings are not always to be spoken of frankly, and after several slips into the mire, he marries a good, sensible girl, and settles down to lead a new life.

The characters are most despicable. They borrow money, gamble and cheat at bridge, love others than their own wives and husbands and do other "idle" things.

Second novel by the author of "The helmet of Navarre." This, however, is a comedy of present-day New York, centering in the character of Tolna, a Metropolitan Opera House tenor purported to be a Hungarian with a history, but in reality a New York boy who years before had been virtually adopted by a musician, educated and pushed into a musical career. These two men find themselves seemingly at odds over the same girl, and it is only when Tolna makes a virtue of truth-telling that the misunderstandings lead to a happy ending.

The diary through which the story is told purports to have been found in an old cabinet, bought within a few years at an auction sale, in Paris, by a young artist. The diary begins with the young heroine going to Paris, where she becomes lady in waiting to the French Queen, and also her confidential friend. The girl's love story is rich in romance. She is separated by treachery from the man she loves, only to be reunited to him many years later in the United States, where she flees in disguise during the French Revolution. All her family die by the guillotine, she being saved through a friend's devotion. In America she meets Washington, Hamilton, Aaron Burr, and other great men.

Dr. Seaman, late Surgeon-Major, U. S. V. E. and military attaché, with passes to the extreme front in Mongolia during Japan's war with Russia, made a very thorough study of the work of the Japanese hospital camps and surgeons, especially their successful combating of disease, by every appliance of army hygiene, dietary rules, and surgical skill. He makes a comparison between the efficiency of the Japanese, and the awful bungling of our medical service during the Spanish war. He says: "the medical and sanitary officers of the Japanese army have proved that the normal condition of the soldier is health, and that those who die in war should fall on the firing line and not by the wayside from disease." Sinclair, Upton. The jungle. N. Y., Doubleday, Page & Co., 1906. [F.] c. '05, '06. 5+413 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

A suburb of Chicago known in the story as Packingtown, whose inhabitants are mostly Lithuanian emigrants working in the stock yards of Chicago, is the scene. The fortunes of one family in particular are followed, from the wedding day of the young couple, which is celebrated with all the quaint ceremony of the old world, down through their miserable poverty and degradation, and that of their immediate relatives. The picture is a most painful one, in which no realistic detail is omitted, of a slavery to capital that has few parallels. Before accepting the novel the publishers sent a lawyer to Chicago to investigate "Packingtown" conditions, that they might be sure they could in fairness publish it. His report amply verified the truth of the story. By the author of "Manassas" and "King Midas."

BIBLIOGRAPHIC NOTES.

GEORGE T. WATKINS, 20 Fenno Street, Roxbury, Mass., has compiled and published a "Bibliography of Printing in America: Books, Pamphlets and Some Articles in Magazines relating to the History of Printing in the New World." Mr. Watkins, who is a compositor on the Boston Globe, and therefore must do his bibliographic work at odd hours and under more than ordinary drawbacks, has brought together nearly four hundred titles more or less intimately connected with his subject, with such exceptions as noted in his preface, namely, the works relating to Franklin, indexed in Ford's Bibliography of Franklin, and the catalogues of special collections in Boston, Philadelphia and Washington. His work as a first attempt of its kind naturally is somewhat uneven, certain works, especially bibliographies, having been included that might well have been omitted, inasmuch as others of equal importance have not been included. Otherwise, however, the work has been conscientiously done, and, on the whole, deserves recognition, and will serve as a good basis for a more comprehensive work. (32 p. 8°, pap., $1. Limited to 300 copies.)

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

MARCH 3, 1906.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

Publishers are requested to furnish title page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

CUMULATIVE PERIODICALS IN POSTAL RELATIONS.

It is to be regretted that under the administration of the new Postmaster-General a ruling has been made by Third Assistant Postmaster-General Madden which shows the same old spirit of bureaucracy and endeavor by administrative process to correct what Mr. Madden regards as the mistakes of Congress. The Wilson Cumulative Book Review Digest has been denied entry as second-class matter on the ground that the cumulative issues of the enterprise are "books, complete in themselves, most of them incorporating all of the matter contained in previous issues." It cannot be denied that this is a publication "issued at stated intervals, 'etc., etc.,' devoted to literature, and having a legitimate list of subscribers," and that it is "not designed primarily for advertising purposes, or for free circulation, or for circulation at nominal rates." It is a new publication, but its principle of cumulation is not new. THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY, now in its thirty-fifth year, or, as the continuation of the American Literary Gazette incorporated with it, more than a half century old, has for many years past utilized the principle of cumulation, re-working its Weekly Record into monthly lists, and these into annual or more frequent cumulations, repeating the same information in more compact and convenient shape from time to time for the benefit of its subscribers and in the interests of literature.

Mr. Wilson has developed a series of publications in competition with those of this office in which at the start the cumulative principle was carried to the extreme of repeating all the material in the original form each month for a whole year, though this scheme has been modified to make the complete cumulation less frequent. We may regret this rivalry and may suggest to our mutual constituency that it is not in the permanent interest of the publishing trade to divide support in so limited a field. But that is our own affair and not the business of the Post-Office. The cumulative process is an expensive one, and if the Post-Office Department should rule out our quarterly and annual cumulations we should probably not lose a single subscriber and we might increase the patronage of our separate "Annual Catalog." But we have considered that these cumulations were of importance to our subscribers and in their measure a service to literature. The cumulative method is not so essential a feature of our own as of the rival publication, but both periodicals should have the same rights before the law. The method is in fact used more or less by other publications outside Mr. Wilson's office or our own, and Mr. Madden's reasoning, if it can be called such, might easily be extended to the very useful class of publications which are made up practically altogether of selected matter.

The law indicates no such discrimination, and this action is entirely outside the law. It is simply an endeavor of a postal official to limit the one cent rate, which may be very wrong but which has been voted by Congress. The Department has no right to overrule Congress, and this decision ought not to stand under an administration which recognizes the authority of Congress. We believe it would not stand under appeal to the courts—but unfortunately such appeal in this case would be so expensive as to be prohibitive. But it will not be to the credit of the present administration if this piece of bureaucratic despotism is allowed to stand. We trust therefore that there may be the appeal to and a hearing before the Postmaster-General provided for in the postal regulations.

At a special meeting of the American Publishers' Association, held February 26, the following members were added to the Board of Directors: W. C. Bobbs, of the Bobbs-Merrill Company; Frank N. Doubleday, of Doubleday, Page & Co., and M. Murray Brown, of Little, Brown & Co. The choice is an unusually wise one and will materially strengthen the Board in one direction at least, by having again a representative in the West.

AMERICAN NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS' ASSOCIATION.

THE twentieth annual meeting of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association was held on February 22 to 23, at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York City. Among the topics discussed were the advisability of the Association preparing a series of articles on the value of newspaper advertising compared with magazine advertising; whether the Copyright law should be pushed to include the protection of cable dispatches, etc.

The officers of the Association were re-elected as follows: President, S. S. Rogers, of The Chicago Daily News; vice-president, W. L. McLean, of The Philadelphia Bulletin; secretary, Herbert F. Gunnison of The Brooklyn Eagle, and treasurer Edward P. Call, of The New York Commercial. Charles W. Knapp, of The St. Louis Republic, and Hilton U. Brown, of The Indianapolis News were re-elected to the executive committee. Two members of the executive committee resigned, namely, Joseph T. Nevin, of The Pittsburg Leader, and H. H. Cabaniss, of The Augusta Chronicle. Their places were filled by the election of Frank P. Glass, of The Montgomery (Ala.) Advertiser, and William H. Self, of The Pittsburg Times.

THE PUBLISHERS' LEAGUE.

THE PUBLISHERS' LEAGUE, made up entirely of publishers of daily and weekly newspapers, has been formed to make propaganda for the reduction of the tariff on linotype and composing machines. The League petitions Congress to remove the existing tariff of forty-five per cent. on composing or linotype machines and their parts, in order to encourage the introduction of machines of foreign manufacture at lower prices. The League is also endeavoring to have the patent laws amended so that competition in manufacturing cheaper composing machines in this country may be stimulated. The Publishers' League has its offices in the Beach Building, Twenty-third Street, between Fourth and Lexington Avenues, New York, with Frank H. Lancaster as secretary. There are no fixed charges for membership in the League, the expenses of the organization being paid from funds voluntarily subscribed.

HENRY HOLT, NOVELIST.

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. will publish on the 17th inst. those much-lauded and much-condemned anonymous novels, "Calmire" and "Sturmsee," the latter somewhat shorn of what some critics pronounced its inordinate length. The criticism of these books has been peculiar. Some of the dogmatic religious papers found no terms, even of contempt, too strong to express their disapproval of "Calmire," and critics of socialistic tendencies spoke in the same way of "Sturmsee"; but other critics gave both books a degree of praise seldom equalled. Unless his range of accomplishment shall excite surprise, the announcement of Mr. Henry Holt's authorship of these two novels will not arouse much of that emotion among those who have read his "Talks on Civics" and his recent essays in the Atlantic and the Review of Reviews, or even his earlier essays in the Forum. The change of imprint is due to Mr. Holt's recent appearance in the Atlantic, and to Boston's having shown special interest in both "Sturmsee" and "Calmire." The Boston Public Library is, so far, the only one in the country reporting "Sturmsee" among the books most in demand, and "Calmire's" concealed authorship led to the printing of much speculation and correspondence in the Boston papers, while those papers were specially strong in praise of both books.

WARNING TO A BOOK FOOL.

LUCIAN, one of the most brilliant satirists of the post-Christian Era, called the "silver age of Greek literature," nearly two thousand years ago gave the following warning to an illiterate book fancier, which is taken from "The Works of Lucian of Samosata," translated by H. W. and F. G. Fowler, recently published by the Oxford University Press, in four volumes:

"Let me tell you, that you are choosing the worst way to attain your object. You think that by buying up all the best books you can lay your hands on, you will pass for a man of literary tastes; not a bit of it; you are merely exposing thereby your own ignorance of literature. Why, you cannot even buy the right things: any casual recommendation is enough to guide your choice; you are as clay in the hands of the unscrupulous amateur, and as good as cash down to any dealer. How are you to know the difference between genuine old books that are worth money, and trash whose only merit is that it is falling to pieces? You are reduced to taking the worms and moths into your confidence; their activity is your sole clue to the value of a book; as to the accuracy and fidelity of the copyist, that is quite beyond you. And supposing even that you had managed to pick out such veritable treasures as the exquisite editions of Callinus, or those of the far-famed Atticus, most conscientious of publishers—what does it profit you? Their beauty means nothing to you, my poor friend; you will get precisely as much enjoyment out of them as a blind lover would derive from the possession of a handsome mistress. . . . You may get together the works of Demosthenes, and his eight beautiful copies of Thucydides, all in the orator's own handwriting, and all the manuscripts that Sulla sent away from Athens to Italy—and you will be no nearer to culture at the end of it, though you should sleep with them under your pillow, or paste them together and wear them as a garment; an ape is still an ape, says the proverb, though his trappings be of gold. So it is with you: you have always a book in your hand, you are always reading; but what it is all about, you have no idea; you do not prick up asinine ears at the lyre's sound. Books would be precious things indeed, if the mere possession of them guaranteed culture to their owner. You rich men would have it all your own way then; we paupers could not stand against you, if learning were a marketable commodity; and as for the dealers, no one would presume to contest the point of culture with men who have whole shopfuls of books at their disposal. . . . What is your idea, now, in all this rolling and unrolling of scrolls? To what end the gluing and the trimming, the cedar-oil and saffron, the leather cases and the bosses? . . . You are determined not to be cured. Very well: buy book upon book, shut them safely up, and reap the glory that comes of possession: only, let that be enough; presume not to touch nor read; pollute not with that tongue the poetry and eloquence of the ancients; what harm have they ever done to you?"

COPYRIGHT TREATY WITH JAPAN RATIFIED.

THE Senate, on February 28, ratified a treaty with Japan, extending to the citizens of each of the two countries the privileges of copyright in the other. The convention is along the lines laid down by the international copyright conference.

OBITUARY NOTES.

WILLIAM HARDCASTLE BROWNE, author and lawyer, died on February 24 at Philadelphia. Mr. Browne was born in Philadelphia, November 14, 1840. In 1888 impaired health compelled him to retire from active practice in the legal profession and he devoted himself entirely to literary work. His best-known books include abridged editions of Blackstone's and Kent's "Commentaries," "Heart Throbs of Gifted Authors," "Passion Play," "Witty Sayings by Witty People," "Words and Phrases," and an abridged edition of the Waverley Novels.

JOHN TREAT IRVING, a nephew of Washington Irving, died on February 27 at his home in New York, where he was born on September 2, 1812. He was the oldest living alumnus of Columbia College, having been graduated with the class of '29. After being graduated Mr. Irving took up the study of law and was admitted to the bar. Although he gained much distinction in the legal profession, Mr. Irving devoted a great deal of time to literary pursuits. He published several books of travel and fiction under the pseudonym of "John Quod." Among his works are "Indian Sketches," which were published in 1835 and again in 1888; "Hawk Chief," "The Attorney," "Harry Harson" and "The Van Gelder Papers."

SAMUEL PIERPONT LANGLEY, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution and widely known as a scientist, died on February 27 at Aiken, S. C. Professor Langley was born at Roxbury, Mass., August 22, 1834. Graduating from the Boston High School, he for a time practiced architecture and civil engineering and then became assistant at the Harvard Observatory. Later he became professor of mathematics at the U. S. Naval Academy and then director of the Allegheny Observatory. In 1887 he was appointed to the position he held at the time of his death. Among his published works are "The New Astronomy," "Researches on Solar Heat," and "Experiments in Aerodynamics." He was a frequent contributor to scientific journals and the magazines.

DR. JOHN WILLIAMSON PALMER, the well-known writer and editor, died on February 26, in Baltimore, Md. Dr. Palmer was born in Baltimore, April 4, 1825, and was graduated from the medical department of the University of Maryland in 1847. After practicing medicine in San Francisco, Cal., Dr. Palmer travelled in the Orient, serving as surgeon of a war steamer in the Hon. East India Company's service in the second Burmese war, 1851-1852. Returning to the United States he took up literary work. During the war between the States he was correspondent for the New York Tribune. After the war he engaged in journalistic work. When work on the "Century Dictionary" was begun Dr. Palmer joined its editorial staff. Later he became one of the editors of the "Standard Dictionary" and of The Literary Digest. On the coronation of Queen Wilhelmina he wrote "Up with the Orange, the War Cry of William the Silent," for the Holland Society of New York, for a copy of which he received a testimonial from the Queen. His most popular poems were "Stonewall Jackson's Way," written during the battle of Antietam, and "Fred Braddock." Among his other works were "The Queen's Heart," a comedy; "The New and Old," "Up and Down the Irrawaddy," "Folk Songs" and a number of translations from the French classics. He leaves a wife and a son, Courtland E. Palmer, of New York.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

THE February issue of The Burlington Magazine, published in this country by Robert Grier Cooke, of New York, contains an article of interest to American collectors by C. J. Holmes on "Three New Pictures for the Metropolitan Museum"—"Ariadne," by G. F. Watts; "Study in Oils," by William Etty, and the "Virgin of Salamanca," by the Maitre de Flemalle. Students of Velasquez will be interested in Archibald G. B. Russell's description of a new portrait of Don Diego Corral in the collection of the Prado, to whose extraordinary series of the masterpieces of Velasquez a generous bequest has added this. Under the title of "The Classification of Oriental Carpets" appears a concluding illustrated article of the series. Another continued series is on "English Miniature Painters," by Sir Richard R. Holmes, beautifully illustrated, as likewise is Claude Phillips's "Dramatic Portraiture," the opening article in this number.

The International Studio for March makes a plea for the preservation of a masterpiece of American architecture, the Allegheny County Court House at Pittsburgh, the best work of the architect, H. H. Richardson. This notable example of the American revival of Romanesque architecture is in danger of being hopelessly mutilated by the proposed action of the city authorities in adding several stories to the present building. Mr. John Theodore Comes, the well-known architect of Pittsburgh, makes a vigorous plea against this threatened vandalism that should interest all persons who care for the standing of American architecture. The recent notable exhibition of the Pennsylvania Academy of the Fine Arts in Philadelphia is described in an illustrated article by David Lloyd. A brief review of American ceramics is made the subject of a fully illustrated article by Mrs. Clara Ruge. A. L. Baldry discusses the work of the well-known sculptor, Alfred Drury, presenting among the illustrations several full-page examples of his figures. An important exhibition of British artists shown recently at Messrs. Agnew's, London, under the style "Independent British Art," is described with illustrations by E. G. Halton. A. S. Covey writes of the work of Ludwig Herterich, the German painter, and a copious description will be found of the recent Arts and Crafts Exhibition at the Grafton Galleries.

NOTES ON AUTHORS.

KIPLING will have ready for the fall a new volume of stories for children to be entitled "Puck of Pook's Hill." The stories are said to show something of the fanciful vein of "They."

ANNE WARNER FRENCH, the author of the Susan Clegg stories and "The Rejuvenation of Aunt Mary," has just returned to this country from an extended trip abroad. She has a new Susan Clegg book, to include the three part story, "The Wolf at Susan's Door," ready for publication this spring by Little, Brown & Co.

NEITH BOYCE, author of "The Eternal Spring," just published by Fox, Duffield & Company, is the wife of Hutchins Hapgood, author of "The Autobiography of a Thief," and some other unconventional literary work in books and magazines. She is also a sister-in-law of Norman Hapgood, editor of Collier's Weekly, who has been of late very much in the lime light, owing to the Town Topics libel suit. In publishing her books, however, Mrs. Hapgood insists upon using her own maiden name as a sort of pseudonym, not wishing to shine with any reflected glory.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

CASSELL & COMPANY announce a new novel by the Rev. Silas K. Hocking, entitled "A Human Face."

HUTCHINSON & Co. will publish shortly a new book by H. Rider Haggard entitled "The Way of the Spirit."

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish this spring Robert W. Chambers's new story "The Tracer of Lost Persons," which deals with the methods by which certain friends of a young clubman obtained a wife for him; also "The Castle of Lies," a story of adventure by Arthur Henry Vesey.

A LARGE staff is at work on a new edition of the "Encyclopædia Britannica," to be issued some years hence. There is a possibility, the Book Monthly says, that it may be brought out in America before the date at which it can be published in England, only this will depend on when it will be ready.

THE AUTHORS AND NEWSPAPERS ASSOCIATION, of 11 Pine Street, New York, with which Frank F. Lovell and John W. Lovell are connected, have in preparation a publishing scheme calculated to startle the conservative members of the trade. The plans of the Association have not yet been definitely completed, but an announcement of its plan may be expected in a few weeks.

CHARLES D. RAYMER, of Spokane, Wash., has compiled and will publish next month a "Dictionary of Spokane," which gives in condensed form a large amount of information for business men and householders. Mr. Raymer recently discovered in a bundle of pamphlets purchased for a dollar from a woman who was moving her home a copy of "Webb's Masonic Monitor," published in 1797. The book is so scarce that its existence has even been doubted.

WHITCOMB & BARROWS, Huntington Chambers, Boston, will publish this spring "A Cook Book for Nurses," by Sarah C. Hill, Instructor in Cooking in the Michael Reese Hospital, Chicago. The author's aim has been to condense recipes and to bring together in tabular form recipes for dishes identical in method of cooking and differing in only one or two ingredients. The book will be equally useful for cases not demanding a nurse's care, but in which the diet must be carefully superintended at home.

LITTLE, BROWN & Co. announce a work entitled "Practical Rowing with Scull and Sweep," written by Arthur W. Stevens as a result of a close study of the theory and practice of this branch of athletics for a decade past in connection with school, college and university crews in Boston and Cambridge. To the book has been added important chapters on "The Effects of Training," by Dr. Darling, an official study of two Harvard University crews at close range, including observations of football training and over-training. The illustrations in the book are from instantaneous photographs and include views of 1905 Harvard crew in action at New London.

THE C. M. CLARK PUBLISHING COMPANY have just ready "In the Shoestring Country," by Frederick Chamberlain, a story of the South, which treats of the struggle between the white Republican and the white Democrat for the right of suffrage, under conditions in which both find themselves in danger of losing their political rights merely because equal privileges are constitutionally given to the black man. They will publish later Louise M. Hopkins's "Signal Lights," a story of life at a frontier post, with a hero who is captured by the Indians and who lives among them some months. Although written originally for boys the story has sufficient incident to make it interesting reading also for the grown-ups.

FOX, DUFFIELD & Co. will publish on March 31, "The Ghosts of Their Ancestors," a story of old New York, by Weymer Jay Mills, author of "Caroline of Courtlandt Street," with pictures in color by John Rae. They will publish in the spring Mr. Okakura-Kakuzo's long delayed work "The Book of Tea," an interpretation of Japanese life. Since its first announcement a year ago Mr. Okakura has been summoned to Japan by the Mikado on an important mission and appointed curator of the Boston Museum of Fine Arts—two "assignments" that have kept him too busy to complete his book on time. They will bring out in May "Reminiscences of My Childhood and Youth," by the Danish critic, George Brandes. The translation into English is the work of Mr. G. M. Fox-Davies.

THE JEWISH PUBLICATION SOCIETY OF AMERICA, Philadelphia, will issue in the spring a biography of Rashi, the great Jewish commentator on the Bible and the Talmud, the eight hundredth anniversary of whose death was commemorated in the summer of 1905. The opening chapter deals with the Jews of France in the 11th century, and the concluding chapters, in which Rashi's influence is discussed, sketch the development of Talmud and Bible studies among the Jews down to the present time. Besides giving the data of the life of Rashi, the book describes his works in detail and presents specimens of his method of explaining the ancient literature of the Jews. The book, specially prepared for the Society, was written by M. Maurice Liber, of Paris. The French manuscript has been translated into English by Miss Adele Szold.

F. E. HAFELY, well-known through his long connection with the firm of E. & J. B. Young & Co., has made arrangements for the American agency of Hills & Co., Ltd., of London, for the exclusive sale of their Empire Series of Christmas, birthday and Easter cards; the Rosemary Series of personal Christmas and New Year's cards; the Empire Series of wall texts; Ye St. Luke's Press series of booklets and birthday text books and a line of high-class collotype prints, pictures, etc. All these publications are among the most artistic in the market and are already in demand in this country. Mr. Hafely is installing a show room at No. 27 East Twenty-second Street, New York City, where stock will be kept on hand to meet all reasonable current demands.

Catalogues are in course of preparation and will be mailed on application.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY announce a new novel, "The Way of the Gods," by John Luther Long, author of "Madame Butterfly," etc.; a volume of "Studies in Roman History," by E. G. Hardy of Jesus College, Oxford, which consists in a re-issue of the author's "Christianity and the Roman Government," with the addition of several other essays on more or less special subjects in Roman history; "The New Earth," by W. S. Harwood, whose "New Creations in Plant Life" is just appearing in a new edition; "The Blackmore Country," by E. J. Snell, a new volume in the Pilgrimage Series, with fifty pictures from photographs of the country which forms the background of "Lorna Doone," "The Maid of Sker" and "Perleycross"; also, a large paper edition, of 100 copies, of Owen Wister's novel, "Lady Baltimore," which will be brought out in April.

By arrangement with T. N. Foulis of London, John W. Luce and Company of Boston, will issue at once with the latter's imprint in America, The Spirit of the Age Series, the first of which will be "Whistler," by Haldane Macfall, and the second, "Robert Louis Stevenson" by Eve Blantyre Simpson. The publishers announce that it is their purpose to comprise in this series a collection of little books uniform in general style and appearance and having for their subjects men and women, whose work and influence, in whatever field of literature or art was their chosen one, may be said to faintly reflect the spirit or tendencies of cultivated thought at the present time. The treatment of the subject matter will not be conventional, the chief aim being to present to the readers a living, marching personality, breathing with the individuality characteristic of the person. Mr. Macfall is the son of Mrs. Haldane McFall, better known as "Sarah Grand," author of "The Heavenly Twins."

THE JOHN C. WINSTON COMPANY have set April 2 for the publication date of "The Bishop of Cottontown," John Trotwood Moore's new novel of life in a Southern town, where the cotton industry furnishes many of the dramatic situations and leading characters of the book. A colored frontispiece and drawings in black and white by the Kinneys will illustrate the book. From the large number of advance orders already received, the publishers believe that the "Bishop's" popularity will far exceed that of the same author's "The Summer Hymnal" or "Songs and Stories from Tennessee." They have also in press a new book of "Toasts" compiled and illustrated by Clare Victor Dwiggins, whose "Crankisms" and "Completed Proverbs" are well-known to lovers of dainty whimsicality in pen drawing. The book will be cut out into an original shape, and placed on sale during March. They will also publish "Rubaiyat of the Egg," with illustrations by Dwiggins.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready a story of American rural life, entitled "Miss Primrose," by Roy Rolfe Gilson, author of "When Love is Young," etc. They announce a new edition of "Harper's Book of Facts," brought down to date by competent scholars; "Chat-wit, the Man-talk Bird," a new book by Philip Verril Mighels, author of "Bruvver Jim's Baby," in which the author writes of the animals of his native State, Nevada, in much the same way as Kipling wrote of the wild beasts of India in his "Jungle" books; also, a new book by Irving Bacheller, entitled "Silas Strong, Emperor of the Woods," the scene of which is laid in the northwestern part of the Adirondacks. The hero of Mr. Bacheller's book is a philosopher of the woods, a man who thinks much but says little, and whose nearness to nature has endowed him with an original observation, a strong sense of humor, and an elemental simplicity that endears him to the reader.

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS will publish shortly "A Short History of Freethought, Ancient and Modern," by John M. Robertson, whose aim it is to show that freethought—reaction against traditional religious doctrines—conditions the progress of the race, and that through such a reaction runs the road that leads toward the goal of humanistic endeavor; "Notes on the History and Political Institutions of the Old World," by Edward Preissig, the peculiar value of which lies in the fact that it offers to students in a single volume an epitome of the two subjects named in the title, and that it makes this information accessible in a convenient and inexpensive form; a translation of the report of the Commission of Inquiry appointed by the Congo Free State Government, entitled "The Congo;" also, the second volume of "The Writings of Samuel Adams," which will be complete in four volumes. They have just brought out "Burke's Peerage and Baronetage." Besides the genealogical account of the families of the peers and baronets of the realm, with their collateral branches, the book contains a similar account of the knightage.

HENRY HOLT & Co. have in preparation a volume entitled "Everyday Ethics," by Mrs. Ella Lyman Cabot, which has to do with the care of health and conduct; "Problems of Babyhood," by Dr. George Wells Fitz and Rachel Kent Fitz, a very simple, readable book, with some twenty delicate drawings of child types by Edward A. Bell; "The Bird," an informal though accurate account of his evolution and relation to his environment, by Dr. C. William Beebe, curator of the bird houses in the Bronx Botanical Park, of New York, with some 370 illustrations, mostly photographs by the author; "The Development of the Fern," by Margaret Slosson, with 46 plates; "Racial Descent in Animals," by Professor Thomas H. Montgomery, Jr., of the University of Texas, a valuable monograph covering the methods of determining the subject, the comparative value of its phenomena, and an attempt to deduce its general principles by the comparative method; "Rahab," a drama of the fall of Jericho, by Dr. Richard Burton, author of "Literary Likings," etc.; "Common Ground," another idyl of American country life by the "Abandoned Farmer," Sydney H. Preston; "A Summer in Apple Tree Inn," an attractive book for young readers, by Mrs. Ella Partridge Lipsett, in which there is some mystery and a most ingenious Jap boy servant; also, an up-to-date Champlin's "Young Folks' Cyclopædia of Common Things," which the publishers have had to much enlarge to keep it abreast of the march of invention.

BUSINESS NOTES.

AUSTIN, TEX.—The name of the Austin Book and Stationery Company has been changed to Tobin's Book Store (Incorporated). This will make no difference in the management of the business, which will have the same stockholders and the same directors. The reason for making this change is because the house is known in that section of the State as Tobin's Book Store, and has so been known for the last twenty years. J. H. Tobin is secretary and treasurer.

CALDWELL, IDAHO.—A. R. Balderson, bookseller, has been succeeded by C. R. Brown.

CHANUTE, KAN.—Charles Shertzer, bookseller, has sold out to Ross Prentiss.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—The Indianapolis Book Manufacturing Co. has increased its capital stock to $20,000.

KERRVILLE, TEX.—W. C. Carpenter & Co. have succeeded J. C. Graves, bookseller.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK.—The Huntley Book Supply Co. has sold out.

MUNCIE, IND.—Shick's Bookstore has been bought by Oscar Watson, who will continue the business under his own name.

NEW YORK CITY.—The New York office of the H. M. Caldwell Company has been removed from No. 4 to No. 2 West Sixteenth Street, where they occupy commodious and well lighted quarters on the first floor. Mr. MacMullen, their New York representative, starts this week on his trip to the Pacific coast.

RUTLAND, VT.—A fire on February 18 partially destroyed the large printing and book business of the Tuttle Company.

PERSONAL NOTES.

E. D. CRANE, formerly in charge of the manufacturing department of the Federal Book Company, is now connected with Grosset & Dunlap.

CLAYTON C. RHODES has been appointed manager of the Omaha News Company, Omaha, Neb., to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of William D. Bancker.

FRANK SQUIER, the well-known dealer in paper, on February 23 was run down by a wagon at the corner of Centre and Chambers Streets, New York City. He was bruised from head to foot and fears were at first entertained that he might have sustained serious internal injuries; but we are glad to hear that this was not so and that he is rapidly improving.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print, of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers, to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent, the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No deduction for repeated matter.

All other small, undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no accounts must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash].

Write your wants plainly and one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly" does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay," book-sellers should take the usual precaution, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.
